

I will not reveal you a secret if I say that men and women are different. And sometimes these differences are so huge and irresistible that we ask ourselves how can we love each other and start relations!? In the course of time relations between men and women were changing, because of political situations, historical events, social norms, but Love was and remains an eternal feeling - one and for all times. It cannot be changed. And this is why we continue to look for this amazing feeling.

Love is love wherever you live. Because this is feeling and of course we can tell about Love, show it and do some things, but the feeling of love is the bases for this. So, love is first, deeds – second. And it is easier to find your love when you say to yourself: “I love because I like to love!” But Love is only a feeling and relations are work. You know that lift can ride up or down and when this lift stays it means that no one use it. The same we can say about relations. Relations are like the work of art. And this is great to be its author. But it is difficult to do this when you are alone. Do you agree? We need to find our better half. And how can we do this? How can we feel whether this is the right person for us or not? What is this? Intuition? Mind? Or we somehow feel this with our heart?

There are a lot of interesting theories about this. Some people say that man with black hair mostly prefer blond ladies and vice versa. But how to be with those whose hair is hard to identify, or with ladies who colored their hair? Others believe that everything depends on the character and say that extremes always meet. But don't you know such couples where both are calm, or both are very active? I know. Then, what should we do? How to solve this problem? You can read a lot of pieces of advice or simply do like you wish. But it is well known that there cannot be a universal pattern. Maybe that's a pity, but don't you think that if we knew everything from the very beginning it would be pretty boring to live?

So, try everything and communicate with a lot of people and then, you will really find your true love and build strong relations. But if you believe in a scientific approach, then, you can check how compatible you are to your lady on the Love Calculator and find out how many percents of love are between you!

* * *

Love is what makes life worthwhile!

Автор: langas
18.03.2007 22:13 -

And in the conclusion I just want to add that love is not about finding the right person, but creating right relationships!

Cheers! See you later!

Источник: Veronikalove.com